Global Reach

Competing globally presents you with special challenges. For example, your medical device and diagnostic products must be assembled and labelled to meet the regulatory requirements of the countries in which they are marketed. We can help you meet them.

Working with our Global Turnkey Solutions specialists, you'll enjoy the confidence that comes from our decades of experience in assembling, packaging, and kitting medical device and diagnostic products for the global marketplace.

Our cost-saving outsource solutions can help you improve working capital, as our pay-by-consumption models allow you to quickly open new markets, even as you accelerate growth in your existing geographies.

Solid Foundation

When you work with RR Donnelley, you'll take advantage of exceptional resources and stability. Founded nearly a century and a half ago, the company has built an international reputation for introducing innovations, providing outstanding customer service, and developing tailored solutions.

In addition to working with leading medical device and diagnostic manufacturers, RR Donnelley serves hospitals, integrated delivery networks, pharmaceutical companies, and other health care organizations. Your representative can share industry best practices and draw on an enhanced range of resources. Plus, you'll take advantage of our capital investments and innovative in-house research and development.

Many of the customers we serve share the kinds of requirements that you have for accuracy, confidentiality, and accredited processes. So you'll enjoy the benefits of our considerable scale, as we continue to invest in developing new solutions for medical device and diagnostic manufacturers and marketers.
